

info@britelyt.com [log

ders | Compose Message | Preferences | Address Book

Move to: INBOX

Message 1 of 2

From: "Pelam" <pelam@starklichtlampe.de>
To: info@britelyt.com
Date: 30 Sep 2005, 09:05:13 PM
Subject: AW: From BriteLyt...

Eddie,

It is good to have good friends like you. I will do the same with costumers from the US.

I will contact Matt asap. I will refer to the guy how told me about him, the one how bought some goods from him.

They are not producing parts in Portugal anymore. Maria has still some in stock, but only very little variety. I can fax you the latest list I got from her if you wish.

50 #50 available from her anymore, we have got lots in stock, I can send you sample if you wish.

In the attachment you see our latest project, I told you about it some time ago.

It is based on the old Petromax 1500 system from the early 60th. The flame cage allows you to take the mantle off, the lantern is running as a heating system then. It is quite effective; you can as well let the mantle on, you will get light and heating power from the lantern. The System is perfect for killing bugs as well, just take the glass out.

We are on the go of producing prototypes, I have tested one already. It is working very good. As soon as I have more samples I will send you one or two for testing. The cage is out of high grade ss. The samples are hand made.

I would like to ask Lv if he can produce this for us, after we and you have finished testing it. And now there comes the next problem, I am not sure if we should really ask Lv to produce this, I am not willing to see it in the whole world in a few months. I will wait how he reacts on our please not to sell goods to Europe anymore.

Please let me know what you think about it.

00136